

SOCIOLOGY HONOURS- ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT

Muralidhar Girls' College, Department of Sociology, offers Honours and General courses in Sociology. Under CBCS, the subject has varied areas of study and analysis. Starting from the Introductory part of understanding the importance of studying sociology in contemporary times there are various areas which have been taken up. Sociology of Religion, Gender Sociology, Sociology of Population or Population Studies, Economic Sociology, Culture and Media Studies, Sociology of Work and Industry, Agrarian Studies, Gender Sensitisation, Techniques of Social Research, Sociological Research using Quantitative and Qualitative methods are some of the most important broader topics which are focused in the syllabus and in the curriculum for all the 6 semesters.

This new syllabus has been framed in accordance with the uniform syllabus which is followed at the Masters and Undergraduate level in Delhi University, Mumbai University, Central University of Allahabad, Hyderabad Central University and most other State and National level Universities. As a result of this synchronization of the syllabus with most of the major Central Universities, it has become easier for the students to cope up with the competition of getting through in these nationally-esteemed Universities after graduating from the college. We are happy to inform you that most of our students are either working in companies like TCS, ICICI Prudential Life or they are already placed in National-level Universities like the Pune University, Jadavpur University, Calcutta University and others for pursuing their Masters.

At the moment we have 4 faculty members and all of them are equally well-equipped with theoretical knowledge and practical experience of doing sociology in contemporary period. In the Department we lay emphasis on individual care for the students. All the faculty members are equally bent upon giving good class notes and helpful class lectures which cover up major part of their syllabus in class teaching itself. Even during the pandemic we have tried to upgrade our teaching skills by using several technological implements like through YouTube videos, PDF papers and books, Google Classrooms, personal videos and others. Moreover, it is always kept in mind that the welfare of the student in the Department is of prime importance to all the faculty members. We are also proud to inform that most of our students have scored 70 and above percentage in the last three to four years in their final examination. Students under the CBCS in Sociology Honours and General courses are equally doing well with very high percentage of marks every semester.

Opportunity:

There are ample opportunities after studying Sociology honours at the Undergraduate level. A student studying Sociology honours can opt for doing Masters in Sociology from reputed Universities, can opt for doing Journalism and Mass Communication, can opt for getting into several jobs which require social science and technical skills, can work with NGOs for internship projects or project assistants, can opt for taking up Sociology as an optional subject in UPSC and other State Civil Services Examinations and many others. A student can also opt for doing Public Relations Management courses, Human Resources Management courses, Masters in Education, Masters in Social Work, Masters in Population Studies for further career progression. In the Department we focus on doing hardcore original research work. With this training the students can opt for going to any NGO or research-based institute for doing research-based project works and can also apply for doing higher studies after pursuing Masters. In this way, the subject is very flexible and is one of the most important subject in Social Science group which gives a window to many openings after Graduation is completed with good score.
